Age - older and younger people	Raising the awareness of mental health issues through information, advice and activities will help to breakdown the stigma attached to poor mental health and provide for a positive foundation for reinforcing the benefits of positive wellbeing amongst adults, children, young people and their parents and carers and the wider community. The focus on well planned and joined up transition from children's mental health to adult services has the potential to have a positive impact on young people's mental health and wellbeing.	The care and support for children will necessarily be different to that required by adults with similar needs and there is the risk that lack of effective planning for young adults can lead to people living in care settings when they could be enabled to live independently in their community.	A range of engagement activities have taken place in the development of the strategy. The Strategy seeks to improve the outcomes for young people by addressing their mental health needs early enough, so the focus is on enabling them to thrive and live independently in adulthood.
